

Welcome Dr. Tom Green as the new Fraser Residency Program Director

Published on Sep 30, 2019

With the departure of the venerable Dr. Caroline Tyson from the role of Fraser Residency Program Director this summer, Dr. Tom Green has stepped up to the plate, becoming the second in this position.

He will bring to the program a wealth of leadership experience as the previous chief of CEPA (the Columbian Emergency Physician Association) as well as his interest in simulation. He will guide the residency program in navigating the major shift in educational philosophy, with the Royal College's recent switch to a Competency Based Curriculum for emergency medicine residency.

Welcome, Tom, to the position, and we wish you the best!