7th Annual UBC DEM Research Day - April 8, 2015

The 7th Annual Emergency Medicine Research Day took place today at the CFRI Chan Centre Auditorium at the BC Children's Hospital in Vancouver. There were seven different tracks of research that kept the auditorium nearly full all day. Even the breaks were extended this year which allowed for more time to catch the speakers to learn more about their research.

Dr. Neil Barclay presented early in the morning with his project on the Effect of a DTU on ED Length of Stay and Admissions at Two Hospitals. We are also very proud of our resident, Dr. Anthony Bryson, who was at the podium speaking on Wireless Transmission of ECGs from ED Triage - A Cohort Study. Both studies generated some great discussions from the audience.
